VIETNAM Ceramics moves into Tecnargilla dates for 2020

VIETNAM Ceramics 2020 to be staged from 30 September to 1 October at ICE in Hanoi

Following the postponement of Tecnargilla to 2021 the Vietnam Building Ceramics Association (VIBCA) and Asian Exhibition Services (AES) have announced that VIETNAM Ceramics 2020 will instead move into this time schedule with show days confirmed from 30 September to 1 October, from the earlier dates of 26-27 August.

Vietnam has maintained a strong position in the recent containment of Covid19 allowing for ceramic industry professionals from throughout the country to safely attend the event this year. The preferred dates at the end of September lend themselves well to an additional preparation period and to increased international attendance and local visitors, especially given the enthusiastic support of government, the association and industry alike. New measures will be put in place for travel, safety, registration, business meetings, catering and networking events.

Announcing the move, Mr. Dinh Quang Huy, Chairman of the Vietnam Building Ceramic Association, explained that "following on from the success of the inaugural VIETNAM Ceramics we are very pleased to maintain the biennial scheduling of the ceramic manufacturing exhibition and conference in Hanoi and welcome the rescheduling of the event to the 30 September to 1 October now that Tecnargilla has allowed these dates to become available following its move to 2021. We look forward to hosting the international suppliers of materials and technology to do business with Vietnam's important and expansive ceramic manufacturing sectors of tile, sanitaryware, tableware and heavy clay applications."

Vietnam is one of the fastest expanding markets in the world for ceramic manufacturing. Vietnam has enhanced the value of ceramic production through increased levels of investment into materials and new technology to create high quality, competitive products for the global market and to serve the domestic demand.

Vietnam's continued investment into ceramic manufacturing has taken it to 5th place in the world rankings in terms of ceramic tile production. It is also leading the world for ceramic consumption with many new advanced and innovative mid-sized and small manufacturers increasing their market presence through new-design products and penetrating new markets.
